Through our bundled IP voice and data offerings, Comvox offers a cost-effective and highly efficient communications platform that allows users to be more productive by enabling you to communicate and collaborate easily across locations and time zones. This is achieved through the use of a broad range of communication options including hosted services, voice and video conferencing, instant messaging, desktop and document sharing. Time and distance are no longer barriers to making the necessary connections that enable your business to be successful. Users typically realize savings of up to 70% vs. their legacy service providers, while eliminating soft costs associated with managing multiple vendors. Migration to the cloud all but eliminates set up, infrastructure and maintenance costs associated with "in house" deployments of servers and applications.
